

Are you wishing to upskill in a particular area of genomics or boost your CV?

Health Education England are funding NHS staff to complete Genomic Medicine modules or academic awards (e.g. PGCert) at St George's University of London (and other preferred providers of the Genomic Medicine course). We deliver this programme as jointly taught with colleagues at King's College, London so you benefit from the expertise of clinical and non-clinical colleagues at two world-leading institutions. Below is a list of the available modules in 2022-23 with the dates of teaching. Teaching is primarily face-to-face with some online learning.
